Confidentiality. This proposal has been prepared exclusively for NMB Bank Plc in response to the request for proposals on Investigation and Handling of Workplace Harassment Cases. Its contents are confidential and should not be reproduced, distributed or disclosed to third parties without the prior written consent of BMC Training (Pty) Ltd.

Revised submission. This revised proposal incorporates the clarifications received from NMB Bank Plc: the training will be delivered face-to-face over three days in Dar es Salaam, with the venue and refreshments provided by NMB Bank Plc. The virtual delivery option has been withdrawn. Commercial matters are addressed in the separate Commercial Proposal.

SECTION 1

Executive summary

BMC Training (Pty) Ltd is pleased to submit this proposal to NMB Bank Plc for the provision of face-to-face training on Investigation and Handling of Workplace Harassment Cases.

We understand that NMB Bank is committed to maintaining a safe, respectful, inclusive and professional workplace, and that the Bank seeks to strengthen the practical capability of its Employee Relations Team, HR Business Partners, HR Governance personnel and other relevant stakeholders in managing workplace harassment matters.

Our proposed programme is designed as a highly practical, interactive and case-based intervention. It will equip participants with the knowledge and practical skills required to receive complaints appropriately, conduct fair and objective investigations, gather and evaluate evidence, conduct effective interviews, maintain confidentiality, prepare investigation reports, make defensible findings and formulate appropriate recommendations.

The programme will incorporate relevant Tanzanian employment and labour law considerations, internal workplace policies and procedures, investigation ethics and internationally recognised good-practice principles. BMC recommends a three-day, face-to-face programme to provide sufficient time for both technical learning and practical application through case studies, role plays, interview simulations and an integrated investigation exercise.

SECTION 2

Understanding of the assignment

BMC Training understands that NMB Bank Plc requires a competent training provider to strengthen the ability of relevant personnel to investigate and manage workplace harassment cases in a fair, consistent, confidential and legally appropriate manner. The training is expected to address:

- Workplace harassment definitions and different forms of harassment.
- Sexual and psychological harassment.
- Abuse of authority and inappropriate workplace conduct.
- The applicable Tanzanian legal and regulatory environment.
- International standards and good practice.
- Investigation principles and ethics.
- Complaint handling and initial assessment.
- Investigation planning.
- Evidence gathering and documentation.
- Interviewing complainants, respondents and witnesses.
- Evidence analysis and decision-making.
- Investigation report writing.
- Findings and recommendations.
- Confidentiality and protection of affected persons.
- Retaliation and other sensitive case considerations.
- Practical case studies, role plays and simulations.
- Practical investigation tools, templates and checklists.

The training will be tailored to the operational environment of NMB Bank and the roles of the participants.

SECTION 3

Course objectives

By the end of the programme, participants will be able to:

FOUNDATIONS AND LAW

- Explain workplace harassment and distinguish between different forms of inappropriate conduct.
- Identify sexual, psychological and other forms of workplace harassment.
- Understand the Tanzanian employment and labour law considerations relevant to investigations.

PRINCIPLES AND COMPLAINT HANDLING

- Apply fair, objective and ethical investigation principles.
- Receive and assess workplace harassment complaints appropriately.
- Develop an investigation plan and determine the scope of an investigation.

APPLICATION AND CONSISTENCY

- Apply investigation tools and techniques through practical case studies and simulations.
- Promote consistency in the handling of workplace harassment cases across the organisation.

EVIDENCE AND INTERVIEWING

- Identify, collect, preserve and document relevant evidence.
- Conduct effective interviews with complainants, respondents and witnesses.
- Handle sensitive information and maintain appropriate confidentiality.
- Identify and manage potential retaliation and conflicts of interest.

ANALYSIS, FINDINGS AND REPORTING

- Analyse evidence objectively and reach reasoned findings.
- Apply the balance-of-probabilities standard where appropriate.
- Prepare clear, structured and objective investigation reports.
- Develop appropriate recommendations based on findings.

SECTION 4

Duration and format

Item	Detail
Duration	3 days
Participants	Approximately 20
Delivery	Face-to-face, in-house training
Location	Dar es Salaam, at a venue arranged and provided by NMB Bank Plc
Daily schedule	08:30 to 17:00

The three-day, face-to-face format allows adequate time for participants to develop both conceptual understanding and practical investigation skills, and supports the role plays, interview simulations and integrated investigation exercise that form the core of the programme.

SECTION 5

Target participants

Participant category	Approximate number
Employee Relations Team	5
HR Business Partners	11
HR Governance	2
Other relevant participants	As agreed
Total	Approximately 20

SECTION 6

Detailed technical response to the terms of reference

6.1 Definitions and types of workplace harassment

Participants will explore:

- Definition of workplace harassment.
- Sexual harassment.
- Psychological harassment.
- Bullying and intimidation.
- Abuse of authority.
- Victimisation and retaliation.
- Hostile or offensive workplace conduct.
- Unwelcome conduct and inappropriate behaviour.
- Direct and indirect forms of harassment.
- Workplace harassment versus legitimate management action.
- Examples of conduct that may require investigation.

Participants will examine practical scenarios to understand how workplace conduct should be assessed.

6.2 Legal and regulatory framework

The programme will provide practical awareness of the Tanzanian legal and regulatory environment relevant to workplace harassment, employment relations, discrimination, disciplinary processes and grievance handling. Key areas will include:

- Employment and Labour Relations Act, 2004, as revised.
- Relevant Tanzanian employment and labour requirements.
- Employment and Labour Relations (Code of Good Practice) Rules, 2007.
- Workplace policies and internal employment procedures.
- Relevant principles concerning discrimination and harassment.
- International standards and good practice relevant to workplace violence and harassment.
- The relationship between legal requirements, organisational policies and investigation procedures.

International standards, including ILO Convention No. 190 principles, may be used as an international good-practice reference where appropriate.

The legal component is intended as practical workplace training and does not constitute legal advice. Specific legal matters concerning individual cases should be referred to NMB Bank's legal advisers.

6.3 Investigation principles, ethics and complaint handling

Participants will learn how to ensure that investigations are fair, objective, impartial, confidential, evidence-based, properly documented, free from conflicts of interest, conducted without unnecessary delay, and consistent with applicable policies and procedures. The programme will cover:

- Receiving complaints.
- Recording allegations accurately.
- Identifying the issues requiring investigation.
- Assessing urgency and risk.
- Identifying immediate protection measures.
- Determining whether an investigation is required.
- Selecting an appropriate investigator.
- Managing conflicts of interest.
- Establishing terms of reference.
- Maintaining procedural fairness.

SECTION 7

Complaint receipt and initial assessment

Participants will learn a structured approach to the initial assessment of complaints. Topics will include:

- How to receive a complaint professionally.
- Recording allegations accurately.
- Separating facts from assumptions.
- Identifying the parties involved.
- Determining the issues to be investigated.
- Assessing potential risks.
- Identifying possible retaliation.
- Considering interim measures where appropriate.
- Establishing investigation scope.
- Determining potential witnesses and sources of evidence.
- Maintaining confidentiality from the outset.

SECTION 8

Investigation planning

Participants will develop practical investigation plans covering allegations, issues to be established, terms of reference, investigation objectives, potential evidence, witnesses, interview sequence, documents and electronic records, investigation timelines, roles and responsibilities, confidentiality requirements, potential risks and reporting requirements.

SECTION 9

Evidence collection and documentation

The training will cover the identification and handling of different forms of evidence, including:

- Written complaints, emails, letters and messages.
- Other digital communications.
- Personnel records where relevant.
- Policies and procedures.
- Meeting records.
- Witness statements.
- Attendance and work records where relevant.
- Other documentary evidence and chronologies.
- Physical or other relevant evidence.

Participants will learn how to document evidence accurately and maintain an appropriate audit trail. Practical tools will be provided for organising evidence and developing case chronologies.

SECTION 10

Interviewing complainants, respondents and witnesses

Interviewing will form a major component of the practical training. Participants will learn:

- Interview preparation and setting.
- Opening an interview and building rapport.
- Asking open-ended questions.
- Using probing and follow-up questions.
- Clarifying inconsistencies and testing information objectively.
- Avoiding leading or accusatory questions.
- Handling emotional or sensitive situations.
- Interviewing complainants, respondents and witnesses.
- Recording interview notes.
- Closing interviews appropriately.

Participants will conduct face-to-face interview role plays and receive trainer feedback.

SECTION 11

Confidentiality and sensitive case management

The programme will address confidentiality obligations, need-to-know principles, protection of sensitive information, secure handling of investigation records, sensitive interviews, managing allegations involving senior employees, conflicts of interest, retaliation risks, and the protection of complainants and witnesses.

SECTION 12

Evidence analysis and findings

Participants will learn how to evaluate evidence objectively. The programme will address relevant and irrelevant evidence, corroboration, conflicting evidence, credibility considerations, consistency and reliability, documentary versus testimonial evidence, identifying gaps in evidence, assessing competing versions of events, applying the balance of probabilities where appropriate, separating facts, findings and assumptions, and reaching reasoned conclusions.

SECTION 13Investigation report writing

Participants will learn how to produce professional investigation reports. The report-writing component will address the purpose and structure of an investigation report, executive summary, background, scope and terms of reference, methodology, allegations and issues investigated, evidence considered, interview summaries, analysis, findings, conclusions, recommendations, supporting documentation, clear and objective language, and avoiding unsupported conclusions. Participants will complete a practical report-writing exercise.

SECTION 14Findings and recommendations

The programme will cover linking findings to evidence, clearly stating findings, distinguishing substantiated and unsubstantiated allegations where applicable, identifying policy or procedural breaches, developing proportionate recommendations, linking findings to disciplinary or HR processes, identifying policy, training or control improvements, documenting recommendations appropriately, and escalation and governance considerations.

SECTION 15Practical case studies and simulations

The training will use realistic workplace scenarios involving sexual harassment, psychological harassment, abuse of authority, retaliation, conflicting witness accounts, anonymous or incomplete complaints, senior employee allegations, digital evidence, multiple witnesses, allegations involving managers and sensitive employee relations matters.

SECTION 17

Training methodology

The programme will use a highly interactive and practical face-to-face methodology. Indicative allocation:

Method	Allocation
Technical presentations and input	30%
Group discussions	20%
Practical exercises	20%
Case studies	15%
Role plays and simulations	10%
Assessment, reflection and Q&A	5%

The facilitator will encourage participants to relate the learning to their actual roles and responsibilities.

SECTION 18

Training materials and deliverables

Participants will receive comprehensive training materials, and BMC will provide the following deliverables:

- Participant training manual.
- Presentation slides.
- Workplace harassment case studies.
- Complaint assessment checklist.
- Investigation planning template.
- Terms of reference template.
- Interview planning template and question framework.
- Evidence collection worksheet.
- Evidence evaluation framework.
- Investigation chronology template.
- Participant assessment and evaluation.
- Certificates of Attendance and Completion.

SECTION 19

Expected learning outcomes

Following completion of the training, participants should demonstrate improved ability to identify workplace harassment concerns, respond appropriately to complaints, plan investigations systematically, gather and document evidence, conduct structured interviews, manage confidentiality, evaluate evidence objectively, develop defensible findings, prepare professional investigation reports, formulate appropriate recommendations, apply consistent investigation procedures and manage sensitive workplace cases professionally.

SECTION 20

Assessment and evaluation

Participant learning may be assessed through pre-training knowledge questions, case-study exercises, group problem-solving, interview simulations, investigation planning exercises, evidence evaluation exercises, report-writing exercises, an integrated investigation simulation, facilitator observation and feedback, and post-training evaluation. A participant feedback and evaluation process will be used to assess the effectiveness of the programme.

SECTION 21

Certification

Participants who successfully complete the programme will receive a BMC Training Certificate of Attendance and Completion. Certificates will be issued in hard copy at the close of the training, with electronic copies available on request.

SECTION 22

Trainer and facilitator profile

BMC Training will provide a suitably qualified facilitator with demonstrated expertise in workplace investigations, employee relations, workplace harassment matters, employment relations, disciplinary and grievance processes, investigation interviewing, evidence assessment, investigation report writing, HR governance and practical corporate training.

The selected facilitator's detailed profile and relevant qualifications will be submitted as part of the technical submission. Preference will be given to a facilitator with practical knowledge of the Tanzanian employment and labour environment and experience delivering similar programmes to corporate and financial-sector organisations. The facilitator will travel to Dar es Salaam to deliver the training in person.

SECTION 23

Relevant experience

BMC Training provides professional corporate training programmes covering areas including human resources management, employee relations, labour relations, workplace conduct, leadership and management, corporate governance, risk management, compliance, investigation-related skills and professional workplace practices. Relevant client references and supporting experience documentation can be provided where required by NMB Bank.

SECTION 24

Customisation for NMB Bank Plc

The training will be customised, where information is made available by NMB Bank, to reflect the Bank's internal environment. Relevant NMB documentation may include the employee code of conduct, workplace harassment policy, HR policies, disciplinary procedures, grievance procedures, employee relations procedures, investigation protocols, whistleblowing procedures, escalation procedures, reporting requirements, and governance and approval processes. This ensures that participants can connect the training principles directly to NMB Bank's existing policies and procedures.

SECTION 25

Client and BMC responsibilities

Party	Responsibilities
NMB Bank Plc	Training venue in Dar es Salaam, including seating and audio-visual facilities, and refreshments during the sessions. Relevant internal policies and procedures for customisation, where appropriate.
BMC Training (Pty) Ltd	Professional face-to-face facilitation, training content, specialised and printed participant training materials, practical exercises, case studies, investigation tools and templates, assessment and certificates, and the facilitator's travel and accommodation for the delivery of the training.

SECTION 26

Implementation approach

Stage	Activity
1. Confirmation	Confirmation of appointment, training dates, venue and participant numbers, and issue of the Purchase Order by NMB Bank.
2. Needs alignment	Discussion with NMB Bank representatives to understand specific workplace investigation priorities and internal policies.
3. Customisation	Adjustment of case studies, examples and practical exercises to reflect NMB's environment.
4. Delivery	Face-to-face delivery of the agreed three-day programme in Dar es Salaam using interactive and practical methods.
5. Assessment	Assessment of learning and collection of participant feedback.
6. Completion	Issuing of certificates and agreed post-training documentation.

SECTION 27

Quality assurance and assumptions

BMC Training will maintain quality through qualified and experienced facilitators, structured training materials, practical and evidence-based learning, participant engagement, continuous facilitator feedback, practical assessments, participant evaluation, continuous review of programme relevance, and alignment with the agreed terms of reference.

This proposal is based on the following assumptions:

- Approximately 20 participants will attend.
- The training will be delivered face-to-face in Dar es Salaam.
- The training will be delivered over three days.
- The final training dates will be mutually agreed.
- NMB Bank will provide the venue and refreshments.
- NMB Bank will provide relevant internal policies and procedures for customisation, where appropriate.
- The final programme will be agreed prior to delivery.
- Participant information and case examples will be treated confidentially.
- No actual confidential employee case files are required unless specifically agreed and appropriately anonymised.
- Any legal interpretation for a specific live case remains the responsibility of NMB Bank's legal advisers.

SECTION 28

Conclusion

BMC Training (Pty) Ltd appreciates the opportunity to submit this proposal to NMB Bank Plc. Our programme is designed to give NMB Bank's HR and Employee Relations personnel practical, structured and immediately applicable skills for handling workplace harassment complaints and conducting professional investigations.

The combination of technical knowledge, practical tools, case studies, interviewing simulations, evidence analysis and report-writing exercises will enable participants to strengthen their confidence and consistency when managing sensitive workplace matters. We look forward to supporting NMB Bank Plc with this important capability-building initiative.

Commercial terms and pricing are provided separately in the accompanying Commercial Proposal, in line with NMB Bank's requirement for the technical and commercial proposals to be submitted independently.
